Using the 2.4GHz band, this kit of transmitter and receiver allows great transmission of RCA AV signals when a cable just doesn't cut it – through multiple walls. If lag is your concern, we played our consoles with no evident performance drop. To expand its options, an infra-red repeater has even been added, but it would have been great to see the inclusion of a 3.5mm audio jack or an adaptor. If your current telly isn't worth the expense, this is the ultimate, inexpensive Home Theatre PC alternative.
